ConEdison Solutions Delivers Affordable Electricity to Pennsylvania Consumers

By Chris Martin

ConEdison Solutions, a unit of Consolidated Edison Inc., agreed to develop a 5.3-megawatt solar rooftop and carport system for the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.

The $16 million project will save the university $6.2 million in utility bills over a 20-year power-purchase agreement, the unit of New York-based ConEd said in a statement Thursday.

ConEdison hired Brightergy LLC to design and build the project on six rooftops and canopies over two parking lots by the end of this year, the company said.
